

NYSORA

New York School of Regional Anesthesia

Ultrasound and Nerve Stimulator Guided Nerve Blocks Workshop

Sponsored by an Unrestricted Educational Grant by GE and B. Braun Medical

September 25, 2010

COURSE DIRECTOR:

Jeff Gadsden, MD

Assistant Professor of Clinical Anesthesiology
Columbia University
College of Physicians and Surgeons
Director of Regional Anesthesia Fellowship
St. Luke's and Roosevelt Hospitals
New York, NY

PROGRAM DESCRIPTION:

NYSORA Ultrasound and Nerve Stimulator Guided Workshops are one-day intensive hands-on programs designed to help practitioners apply the acquired knowledge in their clinical practice. These programs are specially tailored for beginner-intermediate skill level practitioners; however, a certain degree of flexibility will be built-in to meet the individual clinician's demands regardless of the skill level. The main focus of the program will be on integrating anatomy, nerve stimulation and ultrasound to assure successful nerve blocks and decrease the risk of complication of peripheral nerve blocks.
